

In general I don't think that there is too much violence in television programming. The only exception is in hockey games. It would be good if there was a rule that fights during hockey games must not be broadcast as part of the game especially when the game is shown during prime time. It is terrible to let children think this is appropriate sportsman behavior.

There seems to be too much violence in video games. I believe it is those games that are having the most negative impact on children.
